Graduate Studies blogger guidelines
September 19, 2006

Each blogger is expected to meet the requirements highlighted in the University of Nebraska Medical Center Public Affairs Graduate Student Blogger Guidelines

AND

Each blogger will be representing the University of Nebraska Medical Center and the Graduate Student Association, thus it is expected that all posts regarding laboratory personnel, faculty, graduate studies personnel, and the graduate students be kept cordial and in a professional manner.

AND

Each blogger’s post is expected to contain material pertaining to their experiences in graduate school, how those experiences have changed your perspectives, how you have resolved the issues at hand, and suggestions to other students regarding specific issues impacting the graduate student population.

AND

Each blogger is expected not to use the UNMC Graduate Studies blog for their own personal agenda, or to gain any benefits.

AND

Each blogger is expected to contact the President of the Graduate Student Association and/or Theresa Cassiday with any problems that arise from the Graduate Student Blog.

The Graduate Student Association reserves the right to change the guidelines highlighted above. Bloggers will be added or removed as deemed necessary by the President and the Executive Committee of the Graduate Student Association.
