Faculty Disclosure Declaration

It is the policy of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine to insure balance, independence, objectivity, and scientific rigor in all its individually sponsored or jointly sponsored educational programs. All faculty participating in any University of Nebraska College of Medicine sponsored program are expected to disclose any potential conflict of interest to the audience. Potential conflict of interest includes but is not limited to:

- Significant stockholdings or board membership with a commercial vendor by you or your immediate family;
- Research grants from a commercial entity;
- Educational grants or honoraria from a commercial entity;
- Consultant to commercial entity;
- Generic Trade Names: Presentations must give a balanced view of therapeutic options. Faculty use of generic names will contribute to this impartiality. If trade names are used, those of several companies should be used rather than only that of a single supporting company;
- Reporting Scientific Research: Objective rigorous, scientific research conducted by commercial companies is an essential part of the process of developing new pharmaceutical or other medical products or devices. It is desirable that direct reports of such research be communicated to the medical community. An offer by a commercial entity to provide a presentation reporting the results of scientific research shall be accompanied by a detailed outline of the presentation which shall be used by the accredited provider to confirm the scientific objectivity of the presentation. Such information must conform to the generally accepted standards of experimental design, data collection and analysis;
- Unlabeled Uses of Products: When an unlabeled use of a commercial product, or an investigational use not yet approved for any purpose as discussed during an educational activity, the accredited provider shall require the speaker to disclose that the product is not labeled for the use under discussion or that the product is still investigational.

The intent of this policy is not to prevent a speaker with a significant financial or other relationship with a commercial vendor from making a presentation, but rather to provide listeners with information on which they can make their own judgment. It remains for the audience to determine whether the speaker's interests may influence the presentation with regard to exposition or conclusion.
